A wide-angle photograph of the Grand Vidanta Convention Center's interior. The space is characterized by a high, vaulted ceiling with a complex, geometric wooden truss structure. The walls are constructed from light-colored, stacked stone blocks. The floor is a highly reflective, polished grey stone. In the foreground, there are several modern lounge areas with light-colored sofas and dark wood coffee tables. A large, multi-bladed ceiling fan hangs from the center of the ceiling. In the background, a large glass-paned opening reveals an outdoor area with lush greenery and a swimming pool. The overall atmosphere is bright, airy, and sophisticated.
